The Advantage of Short Run Services

As print run lengths continue to shrink, it's important for post press providers to be able to serve the needs of short-run customers. At Seaboard Bindery, we understand that even the smallest projects require the highest quality and attention to detail. Whether your projects are printed on offset or digital equipment, consider us your partner for short-run projects of 100 to 5000 pieces. Here are a few of our strengths in these areas:

Rapid set-up and turnaround - Not all post press services providers are the same. While some companies "shoe-horn" smaller projects onto equipment that's designed for longer runs, at Seaboard Bindery we specialize in fast makereadies and production of short-run projects. In addition, our experienced staff is well-versed in the needs of short-run clients and their projects.

For example, our film laminating services are designed to meet the needs of digital printers. Our "super-stick" laminating film adheres to digitally printed paper quickly, allowing for quick turnaround for your laminating projects.

At Seaboard Bindery, we link everything together to provide you a fast, automated short run production solution.

Selection of inventoried dies and in-house die building - At Seaboard Bindery, we have growing number of standard dies in our inventory, allowing you to avoid the increased time and cost of custom-made dies for projects such as pocket folders. If you need quick turnaround on a short-run die cutting project, ask us for layout help to take advantage of an inventoried die. Our in-house die building will improve your turnaround time and give you exactly what you need.

Complete in-house production - Nothing helps projects get turned around faster than consolidating all production with one provider. At Seaboard Bindery, we offer complete end-to-end production of a wide range of applications thanks to our folding, cutting, collating, gluing, perfect binding, mechanical binding and saddle stitching capabilities. Additional services such as die cutting, index tabbing, laminating, shrink wrapping are ideal for short-run production of projects such as pocket folders, brochures, books and more.
